Diamondhead moves toward incorporation

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
A straw vote Friday in Diamondhead revealed 377 residents favoring incorporation, following presentations by two authorities on the subject. A crowd of more than 500 attended a Diamondhead Community Association sponsored meeting during which 79 percent of those voting supported the political change. Mike Bridge, a city planner from Oxford, and Jerry Mills, an attorney specializing in incorporation, outlined the advantages and disadvantages. Bridge said approximately $250,000 in sales tax returns from the state is presently being lost to the community. He added potential revenues exist in county road/bridge taxes, and franchise and building fees. Bridge stated incorporation allows community control through the enactment of zoning laws, building standards, electric and fire codes, as well as a comprehensive land use plan for future development. As a city, he said, all meetings would be governed by the Mississippi Sunshine Law, permitting public access to all governmental action. "Either you're going to control what goes on in Diamondhead," Bridges commented, "or someone else is going to control what goes on in Diamondhead."

Both men said it was up to government.

"Either you're going to control what goes on in Diamondhead, or someone else is going to control what goes on in Diamondhead."
—Bridge

Mills said the greatest disadvantage to incorporation lies in the creation of another layer of the residents to decide which course of action is best for their community.

Options included remaining a private community, requesting annexation with Bay St. Louis or incorporation. Mills outlined the process of incorporation through petition. He stressed the need to demonstrate the "why" and proposed how. The petition must include a map, designating the exact area; the selection

Black wins Ward 4 seat

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Tad Black claimed a victory over Ward 4 incumbent John Wilkerson Tuesday with 61 percent of the unofficial vote. Out of 639 votes cast, Black received 389 to Wilkerson's 250. Following announcement of the tally, Black stated, "I feel great. It was a lot of hard work, but come July 1 the hard work really begins...I appreciate everyone's help." Wilkerson said, "I feel good about the years I have served, but the people have spoken and they have voted for a change." Wilkerson was seeking a third term. Black will be the only newcomer to the Bay St. Louis City Council following the re-election of city officials two weeks ago. Since there are no other challengers, the general election on June 8 will be a matter of formality. The official vote count took place Wednesday, during which time two affidavit and 23 absentee votes were added to the Ward 4 total.

County casino may face EPA fine

Bayou Caddy Casino may have to pay a $30,000 fine for clearing two acres of wetlands before receiving a permit. The federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) announced the fine this week upon completing a review of information from a January 27 inspection. The EPA determined the bulldozing of the acreage without a permit violated wetland protection regulations of the Clean Water Act. Bayou Caddy Casino Inc. president and chief executive officer George Baxter said the casino company would ask for a hearing during which time a fine reduction or elimination would be requested. EPA reported the casino company to be working with them on a plan for restoration of 1.5 acres of the mechanically cleared area, while the remaining half-acre has been released for permitted use. The lands in question are part of a proposed customer parking lot and road intended for diversion of traffic to the seafood docks backing the casino site and north of Beach Boulevard. Last month and following notification by the EPA for all work to stop on the two-acre site, Baxter stated overall project work would continue. Construction of the docking area, renovation of the gaming vessel and work on the remaining five acres of parking area were not affected by the EPA action. This week, Baxter reported an anticipated 90-day delay on the casino opening.

Down at the depot

Train station was once hub of activity

BY LIZ HAAS
With the introduction of Amtrak's Sunset Limited services to the area and plans for the renovation of the old Bay St. Louis depot, a new curiosity has arisen about what life was like when L & N Railroad passenger services were in full swing. The old depot business area, once the center of life for nearly 100 years, still in the 1940s and 1950s had grocery stores, barber shops and more. It is now a mere shadow of its former self, with just a few businesses remaining. Two depot area businessmen who had their starts during that bustling era recall the train station as the center of life and entertainment. HIGHWAY 90 CHANGED LIFE Charles Thomas and his wife, Jessie, bought Fahey's Drug Store on Railroad Avenue, now Third Street, in 1956 from the Fahey family. Al Kingston, life-long resident, opened his barber shop in 1946 around the corner from St. Stanislaus on Third Street. He started barbering in his uncles shop before World War II at the corner of Railroad Avenue and Keller Avenue.

"This area was a fun place to have a business," said Thomas. "It was very community and family oriented."

"When we came here, there was still a lot of activity, but the new highway, Highway 90, was opening up, and in the next three to five years things began to move out to the highway," said Thomas.

"During that time the streets were crowded because the depot was the only entertainment back then," Kingston said. "But after the highway changed, everything did."

"We don't have anything here anymore," he said. "But, hopefully, the expansions to the depot will do us some good."

ONE-TIME BUSINESSES Thomas recalls the C & S Grocery Store owned by Charles Carter and Johnny Scaffidi was located where Bayou Jacques's is today. Myers grocery, owned by Claude Vincent, was located in the old K.C. Jones building, now empty. Next door to Thomas' drug store was the Ice Factory and an ice cream parlor, he recalls.

Wilmer Thibeaux owned Wilmer's Grocery in the now empty lot across from the Mobile-Medic offers county 25% discount

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Mobile-Medic received a one-year contract renewal with the county Monday following a 25 percent cost reduction offer.

The board of supervisors received an offer from J.R. Ambulance Company which promised similar services for approximately $28,000 less than the present rate.

Mobile-Medic director Steve Delahouse countered with a 25 percent reduction under the condition of a three-year contract. He agreed to provide an average 18-minute response time in unincorporated areas of the county, as many ambulances as necessary to meet needs from a pool of 13 servicing the Coast and continuous free first responder training to volunteer fire department personnel.

He stated for the past few months response time has averaged 15 minutes in unincorporated county areas.

Board members said they would like to stay with Mobile-Medic for they felt satisfaction with the service, but would prefer retaining the option to refuse contract renewal should conditions not be met.

Delahouse agreed, accepting the one year optional contract condition.

Where the county previously paid $87,900 ($2.77 per capita), it will pay $65,900 ($2.07 per capita) for 1993-94 services beginning in July. Mobile-Medic's per capita/per. person charge is based on the 1990 census.

The county's subsidy calculation does not take into consideration population growth since 1990.

Mobile-Medic has 2,500 service memberships in Hancock County.

CHILDREN'S SHELTER Celeste Proulx with the Department of Human Services requested assistance in the construction or purchase of a suitable children's shelter for Hancock County.

Proulx said when children are taken into custody, whether following an arrest or domestic violence, there is no place to put them.

She said there is one home where children are accepted all hours of the night, but the woman is moving from the area.

She added few people wish to take older children, especially teenagers, into their homes.

Proulx reported the county presently has several children sheltered in other counties.

She asked the supervisors for assistance in purchasing a house and property presently for sale between the National Guard Armory and the Human Services Complex on Longfellow Drive.

"There are monies available for running the shelter, but not for the purchase or construction of one," Proulx explained.

Board members took the request under advisement and requested Proulx return with information as to state requirements on staffing, size and facility needs.

FIRE DEPARTMENTS
The board approved a county fire department budget amendment, accepting $78,053 of insurance rebate monies from the state.

Fire Marshal Richard Pate reported $74,053 would be divided among the nine county departments, each receiving $8,229.

Pate said $4,000 of the rebate monies would be used in the firefighters' training fund, for expenses incurred by particition in further state and county certification programs.

The board also approved the surplus declaration of two lots neighboring the West Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, planned for use in station expansion.

A nominal lease agreement was approved with the fire department for a period of 25 years.

PARKS

County Parks and Recreation commissioner A.L. Franklin requested the hiring of a man to operate a newly purchased lawn mower.

The board approved the hiring of John Herring at established county pay to work 30 hours per week, as needed for recreational parks mowing.

DOZER RENTAL

Rental of a dozer from Crown Equipment Company was approved for use at the Pearlington dump, which is presently closed.

A low quote of $1,200 for one week's rental of the heavy equipment and payment of $150 in transportation costs to and from the landfill, was approved.

The Pearlington landfill was closed last week when equipment failures prevented daily spreading of trash accumulation, causing the state Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) to threaten the county with fines unless action was taken immediately.

TRAFFIC STUDY

The board approved a request to the State Department of Transportation for a feasibility study along Highway 90, concentrating on the intersections of Main Street/Blue Meadow Road, Washington Street and Longfellow Drive.

County engineer Larry Seal reported a recently completed Department of Transportation study conducted along Highway 90 revealed a daily traffic count of 1,500 by the Bay bridge and 17,400 on Blue Meadow Road/Main Street.

Seal said a proposed plan for the expansion and modification of the Highway 90/Blue Meadow Road/Main Street intersection by the City of Bay St. Louis contained some problems concerning the sizes of shoulder allocments.

Seal reported Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre would propose to the city council acceptance of maintenance of Blue Meadow Road from Highway 90 to Casino Magic Drive.

Favre said road maintenance acceptance would permit the city to proceed with proposed 10-foot driving lanes and six-foot shoulder designations, rather than meet the state required 12-foot lanes and eight-foot shoulders.

"These measurements," Favre said, "would allow us to work with as little right-of-way acquisitions as possible."

ROADS

Seal proposed the county begin application to the State Aid Road Fund while $412,507 remains available to the county.

District 2 supervisor Alton "Dolph" Keller voted in opposition to the selection of CC Road, opting for Lee Town Road, upon which he said many accidents have occurred.

Approval was given for the State Aid Road Fund grant proposal to cover 2.6 miles of CC Road, from Highway 603 to the Standard landfill.

Seal quoted an approximate cost of $200,000 per mile for rebuilding of the road, and an additional $200,000 for the purchase of right-of-way and replacement of fences by the county. He said including grading, drainage and temporary gravel, a total cost of $530,000 would be incurred.

The board also approved an amendment permitting the county to refuse any cost over $500,000 for work remaining on Texas Flat Road.

HEALTH CARE

Board approval for a letter supporting Coast Family Health Center's pursuit of a grant was given.

The grant is intended for payment of an additional family practicing physician at the Hancock County clinic.

The clinic, located on Hancock Square Drive in Bay St. Louis, operates Monday through Friday. It offers the services of a full time general practitioner, a family nurse practitioner (Monday through Wednesday) and a pediatrician on Fridays.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business the board approved:

—payment of $20,470 for courthouse painting and repairs, retaining $8,974 until completion of flag pole painting and installation of downspouts;

—approved Kiln Water District bond issue;

—the hiring of a truck driver for the county beach maintenance crew;

—and approved payment, contingent upon grant receipt, to South Mississippi Planning and Development Board for preparation of a Community Development Block Grant application for use in the extension of central sewerage in Shoreline Park.

First Missionary Baptist Church.

Anthony Pitale owned Pitale's Supermarket in the present location of the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency.

Boudin's grocery was located at the corner of Washington and Third Streets. Mrs. Boudin also sold vegetable plants.

Tony Benigno and Oran Cuevas had a barber shop on the corner of Union and Third.

Sam Benigno operated Benigno's Bar, still at the same location today. Elliot Casanova owned and operated a jewelry and watch repair store next to Benigno's.

The late R. G. "Manny" Hubbard operated a hardware store across from the depot on Railroad Avenue. Next to it, W. A. McDonald & Sons operated a furniture store.

Engman's Department Store was on Bookter Street, across from the old St. Stanislaus Day School.

"The last building in the business section was owned by a Mr. Simon, called L & N Bar, after the railroad," said Thomas.

In the middle of that center, C. Carver had a mercantile store.

Kingston recalls that on the corner next to his store Vester Ladner had a grocery store, and across the street from Ladner's store Mr. Krankey had an auto repair and paint shop.

"All the stores delivered groceries and ice to the trains to be delivered to the train workers at the English Look-out, Rigolets and Lake Catherine," said Thomas, "On occasion I would send medicine down there, too."

Kingston recalls passenger trains came in about every two hours. "It was a busy time in this part of town," Kingston said.

Kingston also had a wagon he sold snowballs from at the depot for 2 cents. Other people sold sandwiches, bootleg whiskey and more, he recalls.

"When we first came here, the city had police situated on Railroad Avenue to take care of the traffic on the weekends," said Thomas.

"Saturday was a big day. Everyone came to town and this was the main area," he said.

Thomas said, "The depot had a canopy over the back and big benches for passengers to wait for the train and they had big push carts to load the luggage on the train."

He said inside the depot the payroll offices for the railroad were upstairs and downstairs, there was a big waiting room on one end, a ticket agent in the center and the Railway Express, the railroad's delivery service, on the other side.

Kingston said people would travel by train into New Orleans, straight to Canal Street, to go shopping and do other things for the day.

"This area was it, other than the downtown area," said Thomas.

Thomas said his store was open seven days a week until

Jessie and Charles Thomas

11 p.m. and everyone in town had a charge account there. During that time he had 10 employees.

"We delivered in town, in the Henderson Point area and down in Lakeshore," he said.

Kingston was open 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily, charging 75 cents a haircut. He also offered, and still does, shaves and hunting and fishing licenses.

Thomas said during the filming of the 1966 film, This Property is Condemned, starring Natalie Wood and Robert Redford there was an ocean of heads outside his store. The movie was filmed in the building, now empty, that was formerly a bottling company.

Thomas said, "I believe the type of stores that would come back here would be the family and specialty stores."

For nearly 30 years the depot sat neglected and forgotten.

It was built in 1928 for use as a passenger terminal by L & N Railroad and closed upon discontinuance of service in the early 1960s.

RENOVATION PLAN

In March, the city unveiled "This Property is Not Condemned," the depot district master plan, in which the depot restoration is addressed step by step.

The city purchased the depot and surrounding grounds in April, a total of 4.7

acres that extend from Agnes Street to Bookter Street.

The depot platform and passenger pavilion is 90 percent complete, but is still in need of a wheelchair ramp and telephone system, according to Bay St. Louis Clerk of Council Mike Cuevas.

"In September, we will be doing more planting and landscaping of the depot grounds," said Cuevas.

Phase one addresses building code compliance.

Initial tasks include mechanical, electrical and plumbing upgrades. Minor

How do you feel about an increase in cigarette taxes to pay for a national health plan?

"I hate it. I think this country has become neopuritan about health; we are going too far in that direction. I think we need some form of health insurance. Possibly, some form of triage where we can decide who can be helped and who can't. I have personally seen a person kept in a hospital while the bills were run up into excess of a quarter of a million dollars, and that person never regained consciousness prior to death."

"It would be wonderful. First, it might cut down people smoking, and it would help people with health care."

"I think it's a good idea. I think there should be a national health plan, because health care is too expensive. I don't see why the cigarette smoker shouldn't help pay."

Phillip Wyatt

"I think they are targeting smokers when others contribute to health care cost. Tax all fast and fatty foods sold, for they contribute to heart-related problems, tax alcohol for the liver diseases, tax television and sofa sales for encouraging physical and mental inactivity, and what about the industries that pollute the air and water? Instead of giving tax breaks, tax them per amount of pollutant."

of a form of government; one of five in Mississippi; the naming of those officials who will initially run the city; estimations and listing of all revenue sources; services to be supplied by the government; and finally, substantial need for the creation of a new city.

Upon completion of all petition requirements, two-thirds of the voting population must sign approval.

There are approximately 4,250 permanent residents of Diamondhead of which more than 100 are tenants. Out of 8,200 platted lots, 5,400 are presently owned by individuals.

The petition must be filed in chancery court and a public hearing is scheduled. The hearing, the men said, provides an opportunity for input from anyone within a three-mile radius of the proposed incorporated area. It allows those in opposition "to have their day in court."

If the petition is unopposed, a city is born.

Should the petition be opposed, an appeal is filed with the state Supreme Court and incorporation could take as long as two years.

John Smart, president of the Diamondhead Community

Association, reported during an informal meeting with the Property Owners Association (POA) DCA members were told the POA would not fight the incorporation, should it be the direction chosen by the community.

The POA informally agreed to give the city management of community services, excluding the country club, yacht club, golf courses and swimming pools.

Following the vote count, Smart asked residents to volunteer to form a nominating committee to organize a petition drive.

'OUR PARADISE' INC?

A lot of Diamondhead folks were at the Diamondhead club last Friday, May 14 to hear the pros and cons of Diamondhead becoming incorporated. Guest speakers, introduced by John Smart, president of the Diamondhead Community Association, were Michael Bridge, city planner from Oxford, and Jerry Mills, corporation attorney from Jackson.

Both are experts in their fields and gave the crowd something to think about seriously. When the straw vote was taken, it seems 79 percent were in favor of incorporation. Naturally, uppermost to everyone is, will it benefit our lovely community and its residents? More information will be forthcoming from this newspaper and news in this column as the destiny of "our paradise" Diamondhead is decided.

PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE

This is the topic chosen by Len Giaccone, public relations director of Casino Magic, when he comes to the Diamondhead Day's Inn this Friday, May 21 at noon to speak to the Diamondhead Newcomers Club.

As usual they outdid themselves with their boutique, featuring all sorts of handmade items and crafts to sell.

The food (all homemade) was wonderful as always, and recipes were exchanged. I don't know what I'd do without my "society" cookbook.

The hall is nicknamed "Father Henry's Doll House" and, well, it should be, since he worked so hard with all of the gentlemen to renovate it.

The ladies were so grateful that day for his ingenuity in making the rest room facilities private. The proceeds from this popular event go to the needy in Hancock County.

Mississippians would limit federal spending

Mississippians who answered an issues survey from Senator Trent Lott showed overwhelming support for limiting federal spending and overwhelming opposition to lifting the ban on homosexuals in the military.

More than 86 percent of the 30,000 people who responded to Lott's annual questionnaire said the growth of all entitlement programs (not including Social Security) should be limited to the rate of inflation plus population growth until the federal budget is balanced.

Eighty-three and a half percent said they would support cuts in federal programs to help reduce the deficit even if it meant less federal money for projects in Mississippi.

"The responses to this questionnaire show that Mississippians are very serious about cutting spending, even if it might mean cuts in programs that benefit our state," said Lott.

"I have received thousands of letters along with the surveys that make it very clear that Mississippians want to cut spending first. Mississippians are very concerned about increasing federal spending and increasing deficits."

On other economic issues, Mississippians said they support some federal investment in education, transportation and technology by a margin of 61.4 to 38.6, increasing the personal income tax exemption from $2,300 to $4,000 to help make up for shrinkage due to inflation over a number of years.

The top non-economic issue according to the survey is President Clinton's plan to lift the ban on homosexuals in the military. Mississippians opposed lifting the ban 80.8 percent to 19.2 percent.

Mississippians also showed concern over U.S. dependence on foreign oil. Nearly three-fourths said the U.S. should develop a program to reduce U.S. reliance on foreign oil even if it would increase the cost of fuel.

In other issues, respondents said they oppose 62.1 percent to 37.9 percent a new federal law to require private companies to provide up to 12 weeks a year of unpaid family leave for employees; oppose making the District of Columbia a state 65.2 percent to 34.8 percent; and oppose 61.9 percent to 38.1 percent federal legislation, such as the Freedom of Choice Act, that would prohibit states from imposing any restrictions on abortion.

Mississippians said they support 67.8 percent to 32.2, using the U.S. military in humanitarian efforts such as the one in Somalia.

Tips On Writing EFFECTIVE Classified Ads

- STICK TO THE FACTS
Prospective buyers need to know details, like the condition of the item for sale, the size, brand name, color and any other relevant information that would help them make a decision.
- BE HONEST
Aside from being unethical, exaggerating or misinforming potential buyers won't help you make a sale, and may only serve to lose a prospective buyer's trust. Even if they come to look at what you have to sell, they'll be less likely to buy the item or trust you once they see they've been misled.
- SPELL IT OUT
Abbreviations are not easily understood by many people and may even confuse a reader. It only takes them a second to pass over an ad because it doesn't seem clear, why let it be yours because you abbreviated a description?
- THE BOTTOM LINE
State the price. You'll save yourself the hassle of having to answer calls from prospects who, upon learning the price, are not really interested. Price is the first thing they'll look for when reading your ad, and when prospects know the price, you'll know you have a serious buyer on the line.
- BE THERE
List the best hours to call and make sure you're at home. If you don't list a specific time, you could be flooded with calls any time of the day or night. And when you're not at home to take calls, most likely, they won't call back.
- ASK US
If you aren't sure how to word your ad or what features to include, why not ask us? Our professionals on staff know how to create an effective ad that sells, they're always willing to help, and there's no charge!

structural repairs, new lighting, communications circuitry, heating and air conditioning equipment and ductwork to be installed.

Special restroom and fixture needs will address requirements by the Americans with Disabilities Act, as well as installation of a sprinkler system and two fire stairs.

Phase two, addresses the restoring of the building's interior and exterior.

Intents for restoration of the building include roof work; redesign of interior functions through installation of partitions; wall, ceiling, floor, doors and windows resurfacing and refinishing, new signage and furnishings.

Phase three designates for the finishing touches of outside improvements; such as grounds landscaping, lighting, signage and overall aesthetic considerations.

Included is construction of a directional walkway from the depot, to Hancock Street, down along the City Hall park and over to Second Street, leading pedestrians into Main Street and to the downtown merchants.

Cuevas reported the city will begin renovation work to the depot building around January 1994, with a targeted date of completion for Christmas 1994.

"We have a lot of paper work to do before the work can begin, and we have to have the drawing approved by the Department of Archives and History," said Cuevas, "There is a lot of preparation work to be done before we can begin work."

"Overall in the next two years, the people of Bay St. Louis will not recognize the depot district area," said Cuevas, "They will be very proud of this entire facility and the whole area."

(95) and Cox (99).

The Rock-A-Chaw team's booster club "The 19th Hole" will hold its first meeting Monday, May 24 at 7 p.m. to elect officers and discuss fund-raising activities for 1994.

"We shot poorly on both days with all five players several strokes above their average," said Coach Chuck Genin. "We faced excellent competition, and hopefully the team will want a repeat at the District 8 title and state title in 1994."

Heather Warner and Charlie Nelson each shot 93 on Wednesday, followed by Mark Schutt (95), Ashley Cox (99) and Michael Gaines (101).

On Thursday Schutt was low score with an 86, followed by Warner, Cox, Nelson and Gaines.

Natchez native Greg Iles will autograph copies of his international thriller Spandau Phoenix Saturday afternoon from 1-3.

Last week James Lee Burke, author of In the Electric Mist with Confederate Dead enjoyed his stay in the Bay, said Daigre.

Now in its fifth year, Bookends has had to prove itself on the "Southern Circuit" of bookstores to be considered as a stop for popular authors promoting their books.

"I keep telling them how much the town has to offer...We have a beautiful town on the Gulf Coast," she pitches to various publishing houses.

"Those who come are always happy they did," said Daigre.

Burke was a guest at the Bay Town Inn bed and breakfast, courtesy of owner Judy Lipscomb.

"I have really enjoyed the support of people in the town...We sold more copies of Burke than Square Books in Oxford (many times larger than Daigre's home-atmosphere shop)."

On tap for summer are storytellers from various towns in Mississippi and hopefully, she said, Justin Wilson, who has a book coming out in August.

Greg Iles

Spandau Phoenix is a first novel by Natchez native Greg Iles, whose forthcoming Black Cross is expected in late fall. He presently has another two-book deal with publisher Dutton.

The mystery, set in Germany, centers around Hitler's protégé, Rudolph Hess. Hess, labeled mad and captured in Britain during World War II, is locked up in Berlin's Spandau prison—where he is to remain for the rest of his life.

When Spandau is razed in 1987, Berlin Police Sergeant Hans Apfel discovers a sheaf of tattered papers containing shocking revelations—setting into motion international espionage.

The 536-page novel is $22, with a $5 rebate offered by the publishing house.

Burke visits Bookends

Burke promoted his 12th book and sixth in a series of novels featuring the detective Dave Robicheaux. His novel, The Lost Get-Back Boogie, was nominated for a Pulitzer. Earth Circle

Ecology exhibit to travel to schools around state

BY LIZ HAAS

The Earth Circle Exhibit, a presentation of earth-centered art featuring 12 area artists, can be viewed at Serenity in Bay St. Louis Sunday, May 23 from 2-5 p.m.

The exhibit, coordinated by the La Terre Foundation director James Inabinet, will be presented to middle schools, junior high and high schools all over Mississippi, as well as several colleges and universities in the state.

"The exhibit uses art as a medium to express concern about the ecology and express hope that we can do something about the earth," said Inabinet.

The exhibit consists of 12 standing frames connected to a form of "circle of art." The production of each piece of artwork was guided by a specific theme in earth ecology.

Examples of some of the themes used are "Money has nothing to do with happiness," "We must recycle, pre-cycle and reuse," "Diversity and Culture" and "Diversity and Life."

The central theme underlying the exhibit attempts to utilize art to help shape the world around us.

"The purpose of the exhibit is to show how art can help shape our reality and not be a mirror of it, like anarchist Bertoldt Brecht said," related Inabinet.

He said, "It's to get people thinking and show how art relates to the ecology."

Artwork includes etched "Flash Glass" by Wes Koon, handmade molded paper by Nita Posey Jones, an oil painting by John McDonald, molded wood sculpture by Chris Torgersen, black and white photograph by Thomas "Doc" Toups, oil painting by Tony Eccles, molded clay by Nancy McCardle, collage of found items by Vicki Lever, tile mosaic by Elizabeth Veglia, oil on canvas by Kat Fitzpatrick, handwoven tapestry by James Inabinet and wooden relief carving by Alexander Brown.

The exhibit is a project of The La Terre Foundation, a non-profit corporation dedicated to earth education.

CONSUMER UPDATE

Failure to understand a lease contract can be costly to the consumer

By Janet K. Lukens
Area Consumer Money
Management Specialist

Sales practices, contract terms, and a general lack of understanding by consumers cause significant consumer problems in the area of automobile leasing. Many consumers have even reported that they were unaware they had signed a lease agreement as opposed to a purchase.

Leasing a car produces a lower monthly payment as compared to financing a car purchase. This lower payment can certainly entice a buyer. However, before signing the lease contract, the terms should be understood.

One of the biggest reasons for complaints with automobile leases is early termination penalties.

Closed-end auto leases provide for monthly lease payments over a pre-determined period, usually three to five years. At the end of the lease, the consumer may purchase the car, usually for the full estimated value of the car.

The consumer may also opt to return the car with no additional obligation unless excess mileage or unusual wear and tear are assessed. However, if the consumer is unable to keep up the lease for the full term, early termination penalties may be very costly.

If the consumer defaults or terminates early, the lessor takes possession and sells the car then assesses the consumer with a deficiency payment for early termination.

However, unlike repossession in a credit transaction, there is little legislation to guide the computation of leasing deficiencies. Lessors develop their own formulas for calculating default charges, often resulting in large deficiencies against the consumer.

Consumers may find some relief from exorbitant termination penalties in the federal consumer Leasing Act which prohibits an unreasonable default formula. Another consumer remedy may be found in basic contract law principles regarding a "liquidated damage" clause for damages from a breach of contract.

The liquidated damages formula must be a reasonable estimate of the lessor's anticipated damages from the breach as of the beginning of the contract.

For those faced with large deficiency penalties, consumer remedies can be researched by contacting the Federal Trade Commission, the Consumer Protection Division of the Mississippi Attorney General's office, or a private attorney.

In addition to unfair early termination penalties, consumer attorneys also report the following automobile lease deceptive practices:

- * Misrepresenting a lease agreement such that consumers believe they are purchasing the car;

- * Misrepresenting that consumers may cancel at any point with no further obligation;

- * Misrepresenting the default or early termination penalty;

- * Failing to indicate the harsh penalties for early termination;

- * Indicating that the consumer can purchase a leased car when a purchase option is not in the contract;

- * Misrepresenting payment terms;

- * Misrepresenting the trade-in transaction or failing to give full credit for the trade-in;

- * Omitting information regarding the disadvantages of trading one lease vehicle for another.

NRL donation enhances museum's fish collection

The Naval Research Laboratory (NRL) at Stennis Space Center recently contributed important collections of midwater fishes and invertebrates from the world oceans to the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL) ichthyological museum for permanent archival.

The collections include species taken at depths of 100 to 2,000 meters in the Gulf of Mexico, the Norwegian Sea, the Cariaco Trench in the Caribbean Sea and the Western North Atlantic.

It is estimated that the collections, made during acoustical studies by the U.S. Navy, include more than 500,000 specimens of about 750 species. NRL staff members involved in the transfer of the specimens were Robert Fisher of the Ocean Acoustics Branch and Andrew M. Elkins of the Safety and Health Department.

Dr. Stuart G. Poss, senior ichthyologist and curator of the GCRL Museum, estimates that the materials provided by the NRL, which has contributed similar collections in the past, will increase the number of species represented in the GCRL collections by several hundred.

This will provide scientists and students from the University of Southern Mississippi marine science program and GCRL's affiliated institutions in 16 states with a fascinating look at some of the world's most unusual fishes.

An understanding of sealife is important to ecological studies because fishes and invertebrates can affect how underwater sound can be detected. As many modern instruments use the same sound frequency to detect and track the location of underwater objects, the sound can be used to detect and track the location of underwater objects.

surrounding water and can be detected by passing through the water and listening for the echo which is reflected back.

The ichthyological collections of GCRL's Museum rank among the top 20 such museum collections in the U.S. and Canada. The museum contains over 360,000 specimens of nearly 3,000 of the 25,000 species of fishes known to exist.

Stennis hosts opening ceremony

The opening ceremony for the 44th annual International Science and Engineering Fair was held at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center last week. Some 2,000 students, parents, teachers and judges from all over the world enjoyed a barbecue, live music, tours and demonstrations there. The fair was held at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum May 9-15. Family traditions depicted in new library collection

"The American Girls Collection," a series of books and related products, is now available at the Hancock County Library System.

The collection is designed to give children an understanding of America's past and the traditions that families have shared through the ages.

The heart of the collection is a series of historical fiction about four girls growing up in America's past: Felicity Merriman, a colonial girl who lives in Williamsburg, Va., in 1774; Kirsten Larson, a pioneer girl who settles in Minnesota in 1854; Samantha Parkington, a Victorian orphan raised by her wealthy grandmother in 1904; and Molly McIntire, a girl growing up on America's home front in 1944 during World War II.

Each character's story is told in a series of six books, each concluding with a picture essay, that gives more information about that historical period.

Children also receive a ready journal, which helps them enter into the fiction from their own point of view. In the journal, they may be asked to give advice, or to explain what they would have done if they were one of the characters.

The 'American Girls Collection' is now on display at the City-County Public Library in Bay St. Louis, where the books are available. A limited supply of bookmarks depicting the book characters will be available until supplies are exhausted.

For more information call 467-5282.
